Ballade of True Wisdom – Andrew Lang

While others are asking for beauty or fame,
Or praying to know that for which they should pray,
Or courting Queen Venus, that affable dame,
Or chasing the Muses the weary and grey,
The sage has found out a more excellent way –
To Pan and to Pallas his incense he showers,
And his humble petition puts up day by day,
For a house full of books, and a garden of flowers.

Inventors may bow to the God that is lame,
And crave from the fire on his stithy a ray;
Philosophers kneel to the God without name,
Like the people of Athens, agnostics are they;
The hunter a fawn to Diana will slay,
The maiden wild roses will wreath for the Hours;
But the wise man will ask, ere libation he pay,
For a house full of books, and a garden of flowers.

Oh! grant me a life without pleasure or blame
(As mortals count pleasure who rush through their day
With a speed to which that of the tempest is tame)!
O grant me a house by the beach of a bay,
Where the waves can be surly in winter, and play
With the sea-weed in summer, ye bountiful powers!
And I'd leave all the hurry, the noise and the fray,
For a house full of books, and a garden of flowers.

ENVOY

Gods, grant or withhold it; your “yea” and your “nay”
Are immutable, heedless of outcry of ours;
But life IS worth living, and here we would stay
For a house full of books, and a garden of flowers.

A musical score for a vocal piece. The score consists of five staves. The top three staves are in treble clef, the bottom two in bass clef, and the bottom staff has a basso continuo symbol. The key signature is one sharp. Measure 177 starts with a whole note followed by a dotted half note. Measures 178-185 show a repeating pattern of a dotted half note followed by a whole note. The lyrics "a gar - den of flowers." are repeated in each measure. Measure 186 begins with a dotted half note, followed by a whole note, and then a series of sixteenth-note patterns. Measure 187 concludes with a basso continuo bass note.
